The children have been brilliant researchers this week, using books and online information to find out even more about space. You won't be surprised to hear that they came up with lots and lots of excellent questions. Only a few of them were about toilet arrangements on the International Space Station! In history, we made a timeline of space travel and enjoyed finding and drawing the flags to match the nationalities of some significant space explorers.

We worked on our letter writing skills this week, as well as finding fabulous ways to describe the moon. Look out for our poems on display next time you are in school.

It has been lovely to have so much sunshine this week, so we made the most of it in our tennis lesson. Next week, if the weather is kind to us again, we will walk over to the tennis courts in John Leigh Park for our lesson.

In our RE work the children acted out the story of Moses and the Burning Bush. Ask them to tell you about it.
