

This week in Purple Class

10th November 2017

If you are wondering why the children are pulling funny faces in the photograph below it was part of our warm up for our music unit. The children have been learning pitch and pulse. We learnt a new song and followed a routine which involved squeezing our bodies to warm ourselves up for singing.

In English we have been writing some poems about bonfire night, thinking about our sense and the different sounds, sights, smells and tastes we experienced on the night. Continuing thinking about our senses we talked about Remembrance Day and peace, we thought about what peace might smell, sound and taste like.

In maths we have been learning to add three numbers using a number line (Reception have been using a number line to add two numbers)

In PE we have continued to learn new hockey skills.

A huge thank you to Jo who has created our new role play area. Some of the Reception children had been drawing pictures of trucks and playing imaginatively with the small world trucks. When asked what they wanted as a new role play area many said a building site.
